Every year the small harborside neighborhood of Red Hook, Brooklyn comes together for a summer jump-off. The Red Hook Fest features an eclectic mix of bands and dance companies from throughout the city, plus free activities for all ages like kayak rides in New York Harbor (c/o the Red Hook Boaters), face-painting, and Red Hook Trivia Game Night (where winners can take home prizes).

The Festival brings out over 4,000 people throughout the weekend, split evenly between Red Hook residents and travelers from as near as Cobble Hill and as far as overseas. The largest single event each year in Red Hook, the Festival makes a great excuse for a day trip to a one-of-a-kind Brooklyn neighborhood filled with art galleries, great independent stores, and beautiful urban landscapes.

Stay tuned for the announcement of this year's Featured Artists on March 15.
